

CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT ESTEBAN SALAZAR

Chief Master Sergeant Esteban Salazar is the interim Command Chief of the 711th Human Performance Wing and the Senior Enlisted Leader of the United States Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine (USAFSAM), the International Center of Excellence for Aerospace Medicine Consultation, Research, Education, and Training, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. He is the principal advisor to the Wing Commander on supporting more than 2,000 tri-service enlisted, officers, and civilians. Additionally, Chief Salazar advises the USAFSAM commander on the academic and administrative management of more than 5,000 students annually in ten Air Force Specialty Code-awarding courses, to include providing counseling and mentorship. The Wing is comprised of two technical directorates and ten diverse departments at seven geographically separated units at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and Joint Base San Antonio-Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Chief Salazar enlisted in the United States Air Force on June 14, 1994, as a Maintenance Production Manager and later cross trained into the Aerospace Medical Service Technician field. He has held assignments in Air Education and Training Command, USAF Pararescue School, and Pacific Air Forces and has filled myriad roles, including combat medic and Detachment Chief. Moreover, Chief Salazar deployed in support of Operation IRAQI FREEDOM, Operation NEW DAWN, Operation ENDURING FREEDOM, United States Forces Korea, and Operation SPARTAN SHIELD.

Prior to assuming his current position, Chief Salazar was the Senior Enlisted Leader of the 378th Expeditionary Medical Group, Prince Sultan Air Base, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, supporting and caring for 2,500 multi-component personnel enabling the wing to execute U.S Air Forces Central dynamic mission capabilities including tactical air and ground attack, aeromedical evacuation, and a responsive, staging, and operational air base with integrated air defense and forward-based air power. He assumed his current duties on 28 June 2022.
